As a rabbi, I often get the honor of showing people around a synagogue for the first time.

The tour I gave tonight, however, I will never forget.

For many years, Ken and Jeff (pictured) were active leaders in the National Socialist Movement.

In other words, Nazis. Not figurative Nazis. Literal, swastika wearing, Nazis.

Then, through a journey of encountering the other, painful reflection, honest accounting, and help from others - they broke free.

They broke free of the hate, they broke free of the antisemitism, they broke free of the echo chamber, and now they are sharing what they know and reaching out to those still wrapped in the hate to help them break free as well.

Tonight they were here at Skokie Valley Agudath Jacob, thanks to the Simon Wiesenthal Center and the amazing work of Alison Pure-Slovin. Along with TM Garret, they shared their stories and knowledge with us, with deep humility, pain and insight.

Tonight's program stirred up many thoughts, ideas and raw emotions for me that I am still processing. But bottom line, White Supremacist violence and hatred is rising in America.

We need to support the courageous leaders who are speaking out against hate and to listen and learn from them on what we can do to help stop it. Their message was ultimately one of the power of love and compassion to change hearts and minds.

This is the power we need now.

May God bless and protect them in their efforts, and may we all build a world together that is always moving from darkness to light.
